

Sloans — Brittany Cristaudo

Tucked away on upscale Elizabeth Street sits the pretty as an English picture Peggy Porschen's Parlour. This pastel confection of a café looks more like an illustration than a restaurant, with the whimsical cakes and pastries the go-to delicacies of the Belgravia set. Drenched in seasonal bursts of colour and cascading waterfalls of florals, the setting is femininity brought to life. Friday mornings see the ladies who lunch envelop the corner with their designer ensembles and expensive tastes.
